The Mackenzie Theatre Group is very excited to bring you its 2020 production "The Greatest Show" as part of Fairlie's Art and Heritage Festival in November. You will be treated to two nights of fun, laughs and uplifting chorus numbers - all woven together with a very loose 'circus' theme. With 50 in the cast along with a few special guest appearances, they have been committed to practicing over the last few months to reach the high standard we have set for ourselves in previous shows and for many, this will be their 'debut' on stage.

Director of The Greatest Show, Chris Clarke says, "We figured that after the year 2020 has been, we could all do with some laughs! It started as a small thing but has grown to a full show with a cast and crew of almost 60 people, with some familiar faces and lots of new ones too which is fantastic. We've aimed to have something for everyone - a visit from the Devil, the Fairlie synchronised swimmers, a tone deaf waitress, a very dodgy and low budget attempt at Cinderella and lots, lots more. There is even a sneak peak of an item from our 2021 Production 'Caravans'. We've had heaps of fun and giggles putting it all together and know the audience are in for a great night."

Tickets are available online www.mackenzietheatre.co.nz, through Heartlands Fairlie Resource Centre using your credit card or cash, or by contacting Janine Walker 027 413 7504. Tickets are $20 Adult, $10 School Children - Friday 20th and Saturday 21st November 2020 - 6.30 pm bar/7.30 pm show.

Pete Wardle (CrossFit H-Squad)

- "Not all calories are created equal"

What do you mean not equal? Isn't it a measure of energy and what you put in should be relative to your output?

That would be too simple. Proteins, carbohydrates and fats all play a different role within the body. So there are different by-products of those roles. If we don't understand what they do we can get unbalanced. Our hormones and our whole body can get unbalanced.

Like I mentioned in the last article, high glycemic (the rate at which it absorbs into our blood) carbohydrates can cause our bloody sugars to get out of whack. Fat doesn't upset them. It's relatively neutral and often doesn't have the inflammatory effect either (not all fats are equal either but that's a different story!). So when I did a bit of a trial on myself of a diet high in fat, low in carbs and medium in protein, I found the result quite interesting. With fats being twice as calorically dense as carbs and protein per gram the calorie intake was pretty damn high. I'll admit, I was relatively active during this trial period and needed more intake. However, the sources of where the energy came from were the biggest factor on what happened with my body composition.

We use to have an Inbody 570 at the gym which was such a cool device. If you are ever going to get a body composition scan that would be the device I'd recommend to use. Anyway, I had been tracking myself most months since we got it and when I was eating more fat/less carbs was when I was the leanest. Some of the fats were coconut yogurt, avocados, peanut butter, almonds, 90% chocolate, cheese, sour cream plus a few more. Although my body fat was low I didn't perform quite as well as what I did if I had a bit more cover. Now I'm being picky here and the differences aren't much but 5% was low, 10% I felt slower and 8-10% felt the best... for me... chances are you all have your sweet spot too. So, the consensus to the trial with higher fats ... the more fat I ate the leaner I got. This eat fat you get fat thing is a whole lot of BS if you ask me.

So to keep our hormones in check, protein, carbs and fats help. In specific ratios even better. But I know what you're thinking, that must take a bit of effort and time. Damn straight it does. The first two weeks are the toughest and then you can get your eye in and have more of an idea what the portions are and look like. We had new flat mates (family of 5 all living in the same room!) move in. He was playing pro cricket and suggested "Here, why don't you try this stuff". This stuff was like a super blend of the zone diet in a shake with more nutrients than I'd get out of a whole food zone meal. "So what you're saying is instead of prepping all this food, I can save time buying it, prepping it and eating it by turning up at the door, adding ice/water, blending it and having it in minutes?" Mind blow. This was the start to the rest of my life when it comes to keeping my body's fuel super simple. I'll touch more on the many situations this has saved me.

Fairlie residents asked to check their private wells

Many people in the rural areas around Fairlie get their drinking water from a private supply, such as a well or a spring. Like rural households anywhere in New Zealand, there are some things you need to know about managing your water supply, and it's up to you to make sure the water is safe to use.

Water can be contaminated by bacteria, viruses, nitrate, metals and other chemicals. Contamination can cause illness (like diarrhoea and vomiting) that can be particularly dangerous for infants, the elderly, and those with damaged or compromised immune systems.

For households on a reticulated supply, the local council or water supplier will assess the risks and make sure drinking water is safe. But if you have your own well, those responsibilities rest with you.

Environment Canterbury groundwater science manager Carl Hanson said it is vital that households on private supplies get their drinking water tested.

"Testing of private bore water is so important and really it's quite easy too. Most laboratories have testing kits with full instructions that they can send you."

"Testing can be as easy as turning on the tap, taking a sample and sending it back to the laboratory for analysis. We recommend that samples should be tested at least annually," he said.

If you get your drinking water from your own private well (or any other private supply), there are some things you should know and do:

- ◆ Make sure you know where your well is and that it's in good condition
- ◆ Ensure your well head is secure and clear of any debris and fenced off from animals
- ◆ Regularly test your water by taking a sample and sending it to a lab for analysis (at your own cost)
- ◆ Check the historical use of the land to understand the contamination risks
- ◆ Maintain any water treatment devices you have installed

The most important thing to remember is that all household water supply systems require ongoing care and maintenance.

St Joseph's School Fairlie

On Friday 23rd October, our Year 6 leaders attended NYLD20 (National Young Leaders Day). This is a direct quote taken from the NYLD website -

"There is a strong sense on the day that the baton is being passed, as an older generation of leaders imparts their wisdom into the emerging generation of young leaders. The message of the day develops, as students are challenged not only to reach their own personal goals but the goals of those they are leading." <http://www.nyldnz.org/about/>

Our students were certainly inspired by the speakers at this event; William Pike, Riley Hathaway, Caleb Clarke, Okirano Tilaia and Josie Moon.

"I was inspired by William Pike. Some main messages that I remembered was to never let your fears get hold of you and to keep trying."
Sam

"I liked Josie Moon because she got inspired by someone else and decided to follow in their footsteps and now I am inspired by her! She sang two songs to us and she has a really good voice."
Phostina

"Riley inspired me because she works at Young Ocean Explorers and explores animals in the ocean. I love dolphins and would love that job!"
Annabel

"Because Caleb Clarke is good at sport he inspired me. A message I got from him is that if you get an opportunity you take it!"
William

"William Pike inspired me. The main messages I got from his talk was to give everything a try and don't give up."

Fairlie Area Kindergarten

Thank you to the Anderson family for kindly demonstrating sheep shearing at kindergarten recently.

Dion used a battery powered shearing machine to gently shear the wool off the sheep. Some tamariki had the opportunity to give this a go too. Each child then got to take a small bag of wool home with them (or sheep fluff as one child described it as).

We are very grateful to Dion and Louise for sharing this experience with the tamariki and it was a fitting finale for their youngest child Frank who is about to leave kindergarten and start school. This sheep shearing experience has been an Anderson family tradition over a ten year time span where all four of their boys have attended kindergarten. Frank definitely didn't want to miss out on his turn!

The River City Jazzmen are lead again by two Timaruvians, banjo/guitarist Neill Pickard, former Head of Jazz at CPIT Christchurch, and Tony Lewis, prominent Christchurch trombonist of many years. They are joined by Michael Fairhurst (trumpet & vocals), Allan Hawes (clarinet) David Pitt (bass) and Lou Moverley (drums). Lou also has history of being brought up in South Canterbury.

November can be a busy time, as the calendar starts to get filled with events and end of year functions.

Neighbourhood Support groups are invited to host an event for your street/area from 30 November-6 December; highlighting the importance of looking out for one another over the Festive Season. While the 'busy-ness' can be overwhelming, it can be helpful to make time to connect with others and reflect on the year that's been.

The Mackenzie Arts Exhibition '20:20 Vision' is another opportunity to capture some of these reflections in a visual form with categories for painting, photography, sculpture and jewellery. Entry forms are available from Heartlands in Fairlie, or by email mackenziecommunitytekapo@gmail.com Be sure to catch some of the wonderful events and activities lined up as part of the Arts and Heritage Week 14-22 November including Anthony Tonner and the River City Jazz Band.

Mackenzie Community Centre, Fairlie 7.30 pm

A tour of top wordsmiths will come to Fairlie on 9th November. Poet Laureate of Aotearoa David Eggleton, the Kiwi Ranter, and the Welsh Kiwi storyteller, the former Bard of Christchurch on RNZ, Steve Thomas, are accompanied by master musician Richard Wallis.

Say It With Flowers is a title inspired by the English artist Banksy's famous wall image of a youthful masked flower thrower, flinging - not a Molotov cocktail, but a colourful bouquet of flowers, representing our common hopes for the peaceful resolution to the global issues of our time.

"Say It with Flowers touches taboo subjects, such as politics, sport and religion with wit and topicality", says Steve Thomas. This is a free public performance bought to you by the Mackenzie Community Centre User Group. If it's a great night it will be on the outside steps, so bring your chair and vino, otherwise in the Theatre.

Singing Group

If you would like to sing some Christmas Carols to those in the community who are less mobile, please join us for some practice sessions on Wednesdays at 5.00 pm, St Pat's Hall, Gall Street.

It's that time of year when we are mowing the lawns nearly every few days and it really does make you think "Movember". Movember started 17 years ago to raise awareness of men's health issues, such as prostate cancer, testicular cancer, mental health and suicide. It's a great opportunity for those able to grow a moustache to ditch the razor, to groom, wax and pimp their mo's to prompt private and public discussions on men's health issues. For those that can't grow a mo, known as Mo Sistas, we can support our Mo Bros and join in to help raise funds for research and health services interventions. Start with a clean face and don't forget to take photos. At the end of the month we can get together for a quiz night and award the "Best Mo in the Mackenzie". More details in the next issue!

Sustainable Sally

In January this year, a report released by WasteMINZ identified 39% of household plastic bottles and containers were being sent to landfills, despite their potential to be recycled.

A simple solution to reduce this is to use our reusable drinking bottles and fill these at public drinking fountains. It helps the planet, helps our health (drinking water instead of sugary stuff) and helps our pocket (free to fill up with water).

Do you know where our drinking fountains are in the Mackenzie?

Pet Health Insurance

Having to take an unexpected trip to the vet feels a little like needing to go to the dentist, we know we will get a quality professional service to help fix the problem, but we may leave with our wallets a little, or a lot lighter.

In New Zealand we are fortunate to have access to government funded healthcare, so generally we are unaware of the true cost of our own medical and surgical care. Vet clinics, however, operate with no government subsidy yet provide a similar high standard, diverse range of professional medical services for our animals.

It can therefore be a shock to a new pet owner to discover the cost of their pet's emergency surgery, tooth extraction or even routine desexing surgery. This is because there is little public knowledge about the amount of specialised work that occurs 'behind the scenes' once you've dropped your pet off at the vets for the day that contributes to that final bill.

Veterinarians are trained in multiple medical fields and on any given day might adopt a variety of roles including radiographer and interpreting X-rays, clinical pathologist and interpreting blood results, surgeon, anaesthetist, pharmacist, obstetrician and dermatologist just to name a few. This level of expertise often goes unnoticed and undervalued as we are used to receiving these services through our public health system for free.

All vet clinics rely on the use of expensive specialist machines, which like technology, are constantly evolving and updating. Radiography requires modern digital X-ray processors and portable ultrasound machines. In clinic blood testing machines provide a quick turnaround blood result and anesthesia requires several machines and patient monitoring equipment to ensure a safe anesthetic. Not to mention the range of surgical equipment required to perform many different procedures from a cesarean to orthopedic fracture repairs. This level of medical care does come with a cost and it can be a challenge for an average household to forecast for unexpected bills like an emergency trip to the vets.

Luckily, we have a number of pet health insurance providers in NZ as the popularity of pet insurance is rapidly increasing. Insuring your pet's health is not only a part of responsible pet ownership, but is an investment into their future and longevity. Often in veterinary medicine hard decisions are made when lack of finances put a halt on treatment or even lead to the decision to euthanase. Having insurance helps the vet to deliver the services that are required to save a life, as well as saving the bank balance from that untimely bill. For advice on pet insurance, please enquire with one of our friendly staff at -

Fairlie Garden Club

Gardening can be frustrating when wind, snow and heavy frosts play havoc by breaking tree boughs, burning new growth or freezing the tips on roses or dahlias.

The recent heavy frost damaged the flowers of rhodos in the gardens visited by the group on October 19 but the layout and plantings were very attractive thus diverting attention from the soggy brown mess of the frost's destruction.

The gardens in Geraldine were all quite large but Burdon's garden in particular had many hostas, Himalayan lillies, primula and iris planted along a stream. The highlight of this garden was to watch many large eels arriving up the stream to feast on dog roll dispersed by Mr Burdon.

Although the day was a bit miserable and damp the outing was deemed successful.

For enquiries about further outings, phone Arlene 03 693 6400 or 021 0272 3105.

Dignity Bags

Great stuff has been dropped into Heartlands. Thank you for your generous donations. There is a shortage of toothpaste and toothbrushes. Small toothpastes are good as they fit in the smaller handbags. 68 bags in total have been delivered to Womens' Refuge since I began this project a year ago. Three cheers for Fairlie! Gillian Palmer

Heartlands had the pleasure of hosting a Babysitting Course for some keen future babysitters.

On the first night we held a 2 hour First Aid course and they learnt all about the basics of first aid including CPR and choking. On the second night we had the pleasure of having Policewoman Jan from Timaru Police Youth Unit, who was very informative and we learnt all about keeping themselves safe. This was followed by Claire Dann talking about parental expectations and hands on babysitting tips.

So a big congratulations to Mollie, Kaleb, Cassie, Emma, Hannah, Lexi, Poppy, Olivia, James and Dequila who completed both nights of the course. We have some great current and future babysitters in town.

MARY GIBSON

Grant Gibson, Maree Lowen, Kerry Cronin and their families wish to pass on their heartfelt thanks for all the very kind messages, baking, flowers, and visits after the passing of Mary.

Mary would have celebrated her 93rd birthday on 31 October, which is quite a testament due to the many years of uncertain health. She astounded people how she always bounced back, stronger than ever, and always with a smile.

Special thanks go to Moreh Home, for their kindness and care and also to our wonderful local doctors and nurses.

Thank you to all those who attended Mary's funeral service and helped us celebrate the life of someone so very dear to us. Please accept this message as our personal acknowledgement.

Reaching out to others!

The Christmas Season is a difficult time for many experiencing loss, grief, loneliness and the new world we live in since lockdown. Living under the threat of the pandemic in New Zealand, though greatly reduced through Government measures, still lies heavily with people.

Christmas, and especially before Christmas, is the perfect time to mend a quarrel, heal a hurt, reach out to the those who are alone or suffering! We encourage the community to do this knowing that kindness, though joked about when suggested in political arenas, does make a big difference to people's lives.

Since COVID there seems to be more criticism, more uneasiness, more dissatisfaction! We have become aware of such phenomena at 'false news' and then there are the constant reports of the growing crisis overseas – such things play havoc with our minds. So take care what you feed your mind! Maybe watching something cheerful rather than the news is more of an advantage to your mental health!

The message:
Take care of yourself and reach out to others if you can!

Share your holiday with us!

Holidaying in New Zealand

On 11th October, my friend Tyler and his two boys 7 and 9 years and I set out to walk the Milford Track which is known as the big great walk of the NZ.

Despite warnings of poor weather and track conditions that could be impassable, we crossed the lake in our inflatable dinghy and began our tramping.

The normal distance of the whole track is about 44 kms, but because of washouts we travelled 54 kms. Despite variable weather we enjoyed the whole experience.

The beautiful scenery.

The challenge of slippery rocks.

The cascading waterfalls.

The frequent rumblings of avalanches.

The sense of risk+adventure was all around us.

Our trust in the creator of all this magnificence kept us steady and wise. So glad we had dared to forge ahead.

Combined Club of Mackenzie

On Monday 12 October the Combined Club of the Mackenzie (Probus) set forth in two vans to visit Orari Gorge Station. Owing to the bull sales being on in the morning they didn't exactly want us underfoot. This meant we could have a look at the shops in Geraldine then find a nice place for an early lunch, and then go on to the station.

Ross Buick organised the trip for us. He told us the road towards the station, 'just gets narrower and narrower then there you are'. The old buildings were a delight. Seems they were gifted to the Heritage Society who found the upkeep was too much, so gave them back. They are well maintained and contain a wonderful assortment of tools of the age. A wonderful chance to go back in history.

One station owner's wife, aware the families working on the station were well away from anything, created a library with hundreds of books, still on the shelves. We visited the blacksmith's shop, saw the gigs still looking useable, a version of a Maori storehouse where foods were kept up high away from pests, and the stalls with cobbled floors for the Clydes. Then despite a bit of rain, we sheltered under a really large tree and heard of the setting up of the station by Charles Tripp and JB Acland.

The station contains 700ha of native bush and a working farm of 4,350ha. I had to bring the information of the animal husbandry home and read it to appreciate it. We were surprised by the native pigeons falling about in the trees and fig trees on the lawns. The garden is now maintained by a retired cook and my goodness what a huge garden. Fruit and vegetable, but no longer large enough to supply thirteen families.

A great interesting day out thank you Ross. If you're interested in viewing some facts about Orari Gorge Station go to www.orarigorge.co.nz.

I recently attended the Commemoration of the NZ Women's Land Service Members which was held at Rongomaraeroa Peace Walk in Maungati on Sunday 18th October - the site was chosen by Land Girl Sadie Lietze of Alexandra, Otago. Sadie was 19 when she was dispatched from Dunedin to help at Tara Hills. Sadie is now 97.

The ceremony/blessing on the day was for the unveiling of the Memorial Bronze Plaque and Seat which was followed by speaker Dianne Bardsley, who is the author of the book The Land Girls, In a Man's World 1939 – 1946, a highly recommended read. This was followed by wartime songs, music, and a picnic lunch at the Maungati Hall.

There was a great attendance for the day, which included the local Williams family. Evan, Trish and David's mother, Evelyn Carter worked in the Fairlie Basin and she was a rider from an early age. Evelyn grew up in the Fairlie Basin, she was a women of many parts - she worked in the non-electric house curing bacon, salting beans, and preserving fruit and eggs, after a full day's farm work she shored, crutched, mustered for the community, snow-raked, fenced, harvested and baled and could still ride her horse thirty miles to a dance at night. Evelyn farmed with her husband after the war and continued to be a resident of Fairlie all her life. If there are any others in the community that had mothers, grandmothers, aunties that were Land Girls, I would love to hear your stories. Anyone is welcome to visit the Rongomaraeroa Peace Walk at 143 Timaunga Road, Maungati

Neighbourhood Support Week in Fairlie, Albury, Burkes Pass and Kimbell 1-7th December

We are using the run down to Christmas, people going away, empty homes and empty heads, as a time to promote joining our local Neighbourhood Support. We gather your name, contact details, next of kin, name of your doctor plus any special needs and give them to your street or town co ordinator for their keeping. Those details are used if anything like ; a high wind lifting roofing; trees falling over on vacant properties; suspicious cars and people about, to contact the owner of the home and let them know what is happening!

A big part of Neighbourhood Support is knowing your neighbours and you having their contact info. It is a really good idea to let neighbours know if you are going away, any alterations to who might be around your home, getting them to clear your letterbox if away, and checking your property. To be able to do that you need to get on with them so fostering a good relationship helps!

Knowing where our older and more vulnerable folk live helps give them better service from the community.

Each street in Fairlie has a contact person and we are building up membership numbers in the other towns! So Neighbourhood Support is really looking after your neighbourhood, your community, on a day to day basis. In the event of a climatic or similar emergency such as the COVID lockdown, the Neighbourhood Support co ordinators become the Fairlie Community Response Team and commence calling on older folk and the more vulnerable eg: those living alone.

Leading up to Christmas there are numerous well established area and street parties. This is a great time to meet others, have good old catch up and share the message of working together. Maybe it is time for your street to have a party! Get together with a couple of others and discuss what you might do!

If you organise an event for your street, come copy invites, advertise in the Accessible, and see how Heartlands might help – all for free – fostering community!

"I feel humbled to be re-elected as the MP for Waitaki - it was a closer result than in previous elections, but I have never taken this seat for granted.

"This has been a long and dis-jointed campaign, but I have enjoyed every minute that I've been able to spend out and about around all parts of what is the third largest electorate in New Zealand.

"My focus now is on making sure that this part of the country is not ignored in the difficult months and years ahead. This is a strong region that can play an important role in the economic recovery that we as a country, desperately need to take place.

"I've said many times that I want to be judged on my actions rather than promises and that still holds true. I will continue to be a strong and proud advocate in Parliament for the people, businesses and communities of the Waitaki electorate."

Mackenzie District Council is committed to providing opportunities for community input into decision making and believe that better outcomes are delivered as a result. Below is a list of some of the current projects open for input - and we're adding more each week. Visit our engagement website - or call into one of our offices and one of our customer services team can help you to have your say.

Township Shared Path/Footpath Projects

As part of a number of initiatives to stimulate economic growth to offset the impacts of COVID-19, Council have allocated funds for the 2020/21 financial year to upgrade footpaths and shared pathways in Twizel, Tekapo and Fairlie. We are seeking feedback on the locations and priorities in all three townships which will assist Council in determining which paths will be prioritised for construction. Closes 20 November 2020.

Twizel Visitor Information Terminal Location

Council will be trialing a self service terminal to provide information to visitors to Twizel. The concept may be repeated elsewhere in the District if the trial is successful. The electronic kiosk will provide tourism information and link to local businesses, hospitality, accommodation and activity provider websites. Free wi-fi will be provided to allow visitors to scan QR codes and open websites and make bookings or enquiries on their own devices. A number of locations in the market place have been considered, and we're seeking feedback on the proposed location before we make a final decision. Closes 20 November 2020.

Your Choice: 2022 Representation Review

Every six years councils have to review how they are elected. We are keen to hear your views on the current arrangements in the Mackenzie District and whether you think these should change before the next election in 2022. The goal of this review is to provide for 'effective representation of communities of interest' and 'fair representation of electors' (as required by the Local Government Act). In this process, the word "fair" means having equal representation for all voters across the district. Closes 30 November 2020.

<https://letstalk.mackenzie.govt.nz/>

Mackenzie District Council wants to have the right conversations with the right people about the right issues before making significant decisions. Council engages with our communities every day and in many ways. It can be a one-way simple communication to keep people informed, or it can be a two-way process of consultation or engagement.

We are committed to ensuring that the local community can participate in the decisions that affect their lives and our environment - but because we are a small District and a small Council, we have to do this in a way that is both time and cost efficient.

Engagement

We engage with our residents and ratepayers in a number of ways but use the Let'sTalk website as our primary tool. It enables us to present information and use a variety of tools to gain feedback. We don't have the resources to have every discussion in person, or to review and analyse written submissions on every topic. If you can't get online we have computers you can use in our Twizel and Fairlie offices, or our staff can help you have your say. Most of the items we're seeking feedback on are not formal consultations (see below) and therefore we're not required to ask for input - but we choose to because we value your opinions. You can also pop in and talk to us, give us a call, or send us an email.

Consultation

This is more a formal process than inviting feedback. There are rules about how we undertake consultation. Comments are treated as formal submissions (which will be made publicly available) and submitters can choose to present their views at a hearing before elected members. Full details of the process, and when it must be applied, can be found in Council's 'Significance & Engagement Policy' which can be found on our website or viewed at our offices in Twizel or Fairlie. The policy is reviewed every three years when Council reviews its Long Term (10 year) Plan.

When we won't engage or consult

There are times when we won't normally consult the community because the issue is routine, or operational, or because there is an emergency. We also recognise that 'consultation fatigue' can cause people to tune out of conversations with Councils, so we want to concentrate on the issues that are genuinely significant.

Inaugural Fairlie Seedling Swap a success

This last Sunday, the 1st November, Fairlie held its first, hopefully of many, seedling swaps in the College car park. The idea was for people to bring any extra plants they may have grown this year and exchange for others they might not have, or wish to try.

Whilst vegetable plants were the most common given the time of year, people also brought seeds, flowers and natives - a real mixture!

The weather was perfect and it was lovely to see so many locals from all walks of life, and their families, come together and connect. Many were meeting for the first time over a common interest.

In a very relaxed and unstructured way, folk displayed their plants and wandered about to see what others had brought, making trades and swaps, or just gifting, so that there was no money involved. Tomato varieties were popular, as were pumpkins, and herbs.

As the swap drew to a close we all walked just down the road to join the congregation of St Stephen's as they spilled out into the new Community Garden within the church grounds and enjoyed a morning tea together whilst hearing an introduction to the project. Thanks to Andrew McDonald for extending this invitation to the swap crowd, it was a lovely morning to talk and share with others.
